CONCERNED residents are urged to turn out in force on Saturday to protest against plans to strip The Whittington Hospital of its accident and emergency department.

Thousands are expected to converge on Highbury Corner at noon to join health campaigners, political leaders and hospital staff in a mass march up Holloway Road towards the hospital in Highgate Hill.

'Nobody wants to lose the A&E, so have your say' – Shirley Franklin

One carriageway of the busy road will be closed for the marchers who will then gather for a rally outside The Whittington with speeches by campaigners including Wendy Savage of the Keep Our NHS Public campaign group.

Proposals for a rejig of services of hospitals and health services across Enfield, Barnet, Haringey, Islington and Camden have sparked fear and uncertainty, particularly that The Whittington's treasured A&E department may be downgraded.

Services could be lost under four out of seven options as part of an NHS cost-cutting shake-up and plans are also afoot for a cost-cutting merger between The Whittington and the Royal Free Hospital in Hampstead. This is of particular concern to Haringey residents, who have no major hospital within their borders.

Shirley Franklin, joint chairwoman of the Defend The Whittington Hospital Coalition, urged everyone to take part in the demonstration. She said: "Nobody wants to lose the A&E and if you want to have your say, come on the march on Saturday. People are going to be there who have never been on a demonstration before – it has such a resonance for everybody."

"We've collected at least 10,000 signatures and they're still coming in fast and furious. I've been gobsmacked with the level of support, which is just fantastic. I think people feel this is their chance to have their voices heard."

The campaign to save health services across the North Central London area has gathered pace since details were leaked to the press last year. There is now likely to be just one major acute hospital in the north of the region, so either Barnet Hospital or North Middlesex Hospital in Edmonton would become a medical and surgical emergency hospital. Health bosses have admitted this is a deviation from what was promised in the Barnet, Enfield and Haringey Clinical Strategy, which was signed off only two years ago.

Health bosses say the plans are at an early stage and promise a full consultation will take place before any decisions are made.

Organisers of the march had to get clearance from senior officers at New Scotland Yard, such as the numbers of protesters expected on Saturday.

A spokeswoman for The Whittington Hospital said the Magdala Avenue entrance of the hospital would be closed while the rally was taking place for "safety reasons".

Ms Franklin added: "Unfortunately, this threat is not going to go away. The march isn't going to be like magic – so we have to keep fighting."

"People are horrified when we tell them what's happening but that is an individual feeling. If you come on the demonstration, you can share that will other people."

"It will be a fun, lively day but most of all it will be empowering."

Marchers should meet at Highbury Corner at noon. Anyone wishing to help out as a steward on the day, including handing out petitions and explaining more about the campaign, should meet at Highbury Fields at 11.15am.

Council seizes five derelict houses to convert to flats for waiting tenants

EMPTY and derelict properties which have been used for squatting, fly tips and for dumping cars will be taken over by the council to be used for social housing.

Government officers gave Haringey Council the go-ahead this week to buy two large houses in Philip Lane which have lain vacant for almost ten years. They are two of five properties in Haringey which have been approved for compulsory purchase order action. The others are in Carlingford Road, Seaford Road and in Tower Gardens – all streets in Tottenham. The houses have been vacant for a total of 45 years and have fallen into various states of disrepair despite a pressing need for new homes in the borough.

The council hopes to sell the homes to a housing association or at auction and they are likely to be converted into flats for those waiting on the housing register.

Councillor John Bevan, cabinet member for housing, environment and conservation, said: "I'm so very very pleased the government has agreed we can take these well-known eyesores."

"They have blighted this neighbourhood and been the focal point for anti-social behaviour and criminal activity."

The council launched a crackdown last year on the 3,000 empty homes which lie neglected and unused in the borough while 4,000 desperate families languish on the housing list.

Officers formed a hit-list containing scores of long-term empty properties and threatened landlords with enforcement action as a last resort in the Use Them Or Lose Them campaign.

A three-bedroom house in Tower Gardens which has been vacant for 11 years, despite the council's attempts at action, is among the other properties to be compulsorily purchased.

Another three-bedroom house in Seaford Road has been vacant for ten years, having been set on fire, housed squatters and caused a nuisance to neighbours in the meantime. And a neglected two-bedroom house in Carlingford Road has fallen into disrepair after lying empty for 15 years.

To report an empty home, contact Haringey's empty homes officer on 020 8489 4214.

Speed monitors issued to police officers for Safer Neighbourhood teams' crackdown

By Lucy Purdy

RECKLESS motorists who race around the roads of Haringey come against a new line of defence from this week as the fight against speeding is taken to street level.

Beat bobbies in Safer Neighbourhood teams across the borough will be issued with speed cameras in a bid to cut the number of deaths and serious injuries caused by accidents on Haringey's roads.

Haringey Police and Haringey Council are stepping up their battle against careless drivers after there were 232 serious accidents in Haringey since 2007 – and a staggering 75 between January and October last year alone.

The first raft of speed guns, which are being funded by the council at a cost of £2,500 per gun, were handed over to officers at Bounds Green SNT last week. The new guns will mean police across the borough can carry out speeding operations on an ad-hoc basis, targeting speeding hotspots as and when they arise, rather than having to arrange support from the Met Police's specialist traffic unit.

Safer Neighbourhood inspector John Forde said: "Hopefully these guns will remind drivers to keep to the speed limit and, where they don't, we will take action. Besides curbing speeding, these guns will help us pick up people who are committing other crimes, such as driving without a licence or when disqualified, or driving without tax. Road safety is clearly a key concern for our communities and we will be using this new equipment to continue to tackle the issue and educate people about the dangers of speeding."

Councillor John Bevan, cabinet member for housing, environment and conservation at the council, hoped the new guns would send out a warning to motorists getting behind the wheel without a second thought for the safety of others.

He said: "Too often we see people endangering lives – even near schools – through thoughtless and dangerous driving. I hope these speed guns will make people think twice before speeding in Haringey and send a message to motorists that when they travel in the borough they should stick to the speed limit or risk prosecution."

The hope is that all officers will eventually be trained in how to use the guns, catching more of the culprits and reassuring concerned neighbours that action is being taken. Speeding featured among the priorities for six of the borough's 19 SNTs when they were last set, though they are due to be reviewed in the coming months.

Bobbies on the beat go great guns to catch speeding motorists

Drivers caught speeding can expect a £60 fine and three penalty points or to be hauled before the courts.

Visit www.met.police.uk/teams/haringey or call 0300 123 1212 to find out where your local SNT is based. news.haringey@nlhnews.co.uk

Road safety is clearly a key concern for our communities.

Retailer escapes death as robbers shoot him in neck

A SHOPKEEPER was shot in the neck during an armed robbery in Wood Green.

The 51-year-old shop worker at Rainbow Food And Wines in Green Lanes is thought to have been shot by two men who arrived at the shop by motorbike on February 17.

The bike passenger went into the shop and demanded money from the shopkeeper who refused and was then shot.

The man left the shop empty-handed and drove off southbound along Green Lanes, towards Manor House. A second shop-worker and a male customer were also in the shop at the time but were not hurt.

The main suspect is described as black, about 6ft 3in tall, of thin build and wearing a black full-face helmet with darkened visor and black jacket.

Officers currently have no description of either the driver or the motorcycle but believe the shooting may be linked to a second armed robbery in Shoreditch Food And Wine in Hackney 20 minutes later. No arrests have been made in connection with either incident.

Detective Inspector Matt Carter, of Finchley Flying Squad, said: "As a result of the initial robbery a man is in hospital lucky to be alive.

"The suspects were extremely ruthless and more than willing to use violence as a means to an end. I would urgently appeal to any witnesses of either incident to contact police."

Anyone with information should call Finchley Flying Squad on 020 8358 1751.

Social care: a job that changes lives

Imagine yourself in a job that involves putting people back in control of their lives. More than a million people work in social care and over the next few years this is set to grow. With as many as 200,000 jobs in the sector expected to be advertised in the coming year for a diverse range of jobs there has never been a better time to consider how working in social care could suit you.

Whether you're moving from another career, starting your working life from school or college or looking to get back into work after some time out, there are a huge variety of roles to choose from whether it's working with adults with learning disabilities, with children and their families or with older people. You could work in a residential home or day centre or help someone in their own home.

In many cases, you don't need qualifications to start, as training is done on the job and many employees will help you gain NVQs. There are also plenty of opportunities to acquire additional skills training and qualifications.

One of the real benefits cited by many people who work in social care is the variety.

For Sarah Robinson, for example, there's no such thing as a typical day at the office. Sarah, 23, works in social care as a team manager and currently manages three services, supporting six people with special needs with 11 staff members.

Sarah decided on a career in social care after helping look after her grandfather when he was terminally ill. She started out doing voluntary work with her local day care service for young adults with disabilities, and while volunteering there, decided social care was right for her.

Sarah started her professional career by working with an agency as a casual support worker for social care services in her area supporting a wide range of different people with different disabilities. It was through the agency Sarah worked at a service where the people she supported invited her to work with them full time. She then transferred to a new company and completed her NVQ2 in 2007 while working there.

Since then she has progressed to a senior support worker and is now a team manager along with undertaking on a Management Development Programme. She has also started her NVQ4, with her next goal to progress to a service manager.

She says: "I did an A-Level in performing arts at college and originally planned to pursue an acting career but after working in social care it felt like the right fit for me. Since then I've worked hard but it's paid off and I've been able to have additional training and take on more responsibility."

"There is so much variety in my role; one day I'll work on site supporting service users whilst on another day I may be in the office interviewing for new staff or supporting other team members. Opportunities definitely exist for those that are prepared to seize them! If you like helping people, I'd recommend you think about working in social care – it can be one of the most rewarding things you'll do. It's brilliant to see members of my team flourish in the right role."

To encourage people to consider a career in social care, a series of events will be held in local shopping centres across 50 locations in England. To be held during the following weeks, the events will aim to raise awareness and understanding of the range of jobs within the sector, routes to entry and the possibility of on-the-job training. Local employers will also be on hand to talk about immediate vacancies. To find out more about working in social care, including the full list of events visit: www.socialcarecareers.co.uk

Ex-trader is a saviour of real ale as he gets brewing back in Tottenham

FROM staring at spreadsheets in a stuffy office to perfecting the fine art of brewing beer, the last year has been a rollercoaster ride for the owner of Tottenham's new Redemption Brewery.

Bored with life as a bond trader, 36-year-old Andy Moffat quit his job at Deutsche Bank last summer and began to explore the idea of setting up a microbrewery. He leased an industrial unit in Tottenham and has now been producing beer for two months – the golden-coloured Redemption Pale Ale and a darker ale with a tantalising hint of spiciness called Redemption Urban Dusk.

From working for a huge, multinational corporation, Andy has had to adjust to going it alone: building the equipment single-handedly, shovelling piles of intriguing-smelling malt, hops and yeast in and out of the huge steel tanks and then delivering the finished product in purple and pink-branded Redemption casks to pubs across London.

"It's just so great to be doing something different," he said while showing the Advertiser around the brewery in West Road.

"It's completely different from working in a large firm where help is just a phone call away – I can't just call the IT guy here! The kind of brewing I'm doing is part science and part art. I'm following the basic science of brewing in the same way that big companies do but also being a bit touchy-feely and trying new things out.

"I see it as like buying supermarket fish fingers as opposed to going to eat in a nice restaurant. The fishfingers will always be consistent and taste exactly the same, whereas if you go into a restaurant the food may be slightly inconsistent but it will be of a better quality and taste fresher. That's how I see myself in comparison to some of the multinational brewers."

Andy is hoping to cash in on a resurgence of interest in smaller, independent brewers which drinkers seem to be turning to rather than more bland multinational companies whose beers are ten a penny in pubs and bars up and down the country. Independent breweries such as Andy's are producing more adventurous beers, often offering far more flavour, which are being eagerly snapped up by publicans.

The Redemption Pale Ale has a strength of 3.8 per cent ABV, a citrus aroma and floral undertones – even as a non-beer drinker, it tastes deliciously summery and refreshing to me. The Urban Dusk, which is a touch stronger at 4.6 per cent ABV, has a darker, spicy flavour coming from the use of pale chocolate malt.

“At the moment I want to get two beers right,” Andy explained. “But I would really like to do seasonal beers, which would only be available for about three months of the year.

“People generally like to drink darker beers during the winter months and then light, refreshing, zingy beers during the summer, maybe with a little bit of citrus. Slight changes to the process can make a huge difference to the taste. If you put the hops in at the beginning it tastes different to adding them at the end. The temperature to which the malt is roasted also affects the taste and the colour. It’s the same as using herbs or salt in cooking.”

Girlfriend Sam has kindly donated her spare tights to the cause – to catch the spent grains instead of letting them go down the drains. “I said I would pay for her new ones if she gave me her old pairs,” Andy said, though he has now resorted to buying bulk packs of Asda’s economy range.

The spent grains and malt, which get their flavour extracted in a huge tank of hot water – “like making a giant cup of tea” – are then dug into the soil of allotments in Ponders End by grateful plot-holders. The brewery also uses renewable energy.

It’s good to bring a brewery back to Tottenham.

The whole brewing process takes about 12 hours and then the beer is conditioned for up to six days in huge holding tanks, which hold a staggering 3,000 pints each. Redemption Ale is already being sold at London pubs including the Prince Albert in Camden, Charles Lamb in Islington and Bree Louise in Euston, and Andy hopes to target drinking holes nearer to home in Haringey in the coming months.

And he is pleased to have brought a brewery back to Tottenham, where the first British lager is thought to have been produced.

“It’s good to bring it back,” he said. “There used to be loads of breweries in London but there aren’t so many now because the rents are so high. “It was great to taste the first beer I produced – a really good feeling. I’m not someone who is generally very good at making anything so it’s nice to make something people can drink and really enjoy!”

Featherstone tops sexiest MP poll

HORNSEY and Wood Green MP Lynne Featherstone has been declared the “most fanciable MP” of the 2005–2010 Parliament in a Sky News survey.

The 58-year-old Liberal Democrat politician is the only MP to make it on to the list for four years in a row.

“For a woman who stopped counting her age several decades ago, I am very flattered by the compliment,” she said. “Although if politics is showbusiness for ugly people, does that mean I’m best of a bad lot?”

Number two on the list is former Europe minister Caroline Flint, the 2006 winner.

Firefighters tackle blaze as two escape

TWO people fled from a burning house in Tottenham last Wednesday after a blaze ripped through the building in Farrant Avenue.

Four fire engines and 20 firefighters were called to the fire at 8.50pm after the residents had already managed to escape. The fire damaged the front room, hallway and stairs and caused smoke damage throughout.

The fire was under control by 10pm. The cause of the blaze is being investigated.

Rape witness appeal

POLICE have revealed details of another rape in Haringey which took place last month – the third sex attack in seven weeks.

Detectives released details of the attack after the woman, in her thirties, was attacked by a man near Haringey Green Lanes station in the early hours of Saturday January 9.

It follows the rape of a woman in her twenties in Mattison Road at about 7am on December 15 and the robbery and rape of a woman in the early hours of November 21 last year.

Though police are keen to stress there is no evidence the attacks are linked, the fact the rapes happened within a few streets near the Haringey Ladder has caused concern. Police only revealed details of the latest attack last week to appeal for information and witnesses to come forward.

The woman was at the Harran restaurant in Green Lanes, near the junction with Burgoyne Road, after a night out socialising. She left the restaurant shortly before 2.40am to withdraw money from a nearby bank and was approached by a man who then assaulted her near the station.

After the attack, she was taken to a taxi office near the retail park next to the station by a man who offered her his coat to keep her warm and also offered to pay her cab fare. This happened just before 4am. Detectives would like to hear from this man and two workmen who entered the restaurant while the victim and her friends were inside.

The woman is white, aged in her thirties, with shoulder-length brown hair and was wearing a dark shirt with white cuffs and a dark collar, a dark jumper, dark trousers and pink trainers.

Anyone with information about the attacks should call the Sapphire Unit on 020 8345 4512 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111 to remain anonymous.

On-the-run rapist is jailed

Jailed: Wysocki

A RAPIST who fled to Northern Ireland to evade detectives hunting him for two attacks committed 13 years ago has been jailed.

Dawid Wysocki, 30, also known as Andrzej Wysocki or Arthur Bryewicz, from Islington, was jailed for eight and half years on Friday February 12 for his part in two sickening rapes in 1996. Wysocki was handed the sentence at Wood Green Crown Court after admitting raping a 24-year-old woman on Watermead Way, Tottenham Marshes, on September 26 1996. He also pleaded guilty to taking part in the gang rape of a 17-year-old prostitute four days before this attack.

From leaking heat to making money - why loft insulation is a money spinner

Nearly half of UK homes waste an average of £150 of heat through their roofs every year just because they don't have enough loft insulation. But improving your insulation doesn't just knock down your energy bills and make your home cosier. Many homeowners have found that clearing their loft can give their budget a boost as they turn unwanted items into cash from the attic.

'We did a clear out in our maisonette,' says homeowner Will Rowberry. 'It was hugely satisfying and made us money. A coat we'd inherited fetched nearly £200 at a local secondhand clothes shop. We've also taken old pictures and furniture to an auction house so we'll get another wedge of cash once they've been sold!'

There are many places which can help you turn attic clutter into cash. After all, one man's trash is another's treasure. Old wedding dresses net owners about half of their sale price on free listing sites like Preloved. Secondhand books and CDs can earn upwards of 50p-a-piece, and boxes of old children's clothes and toys go for £5-£50 on internet auction sites. Meanwhile, everything from tools, clothes and knick-knacks can be turned into cash at carboot sales. Alternatively, you can give away unwanted items to charity shops or through exchange networks like Freecycle and Freegle.

Research by the Energy Saving Trust has shown that a quarter of the heat in an un-insulated house is lost through the roof and another third through the walls.

Across the UK, 13 million homes have less than the recommended loft insulation of 270mm. It costs around £250 for a specialist to fit it, but bringing your insulation up to this standard will cut your fuel bills for many years to come. You could also save £115 a year by insulating your wall cavities. This only takes a couple of hours and can be done from outside your property.

The costs of installing loft or cavity wall insulation pay for themselves within several years. And that doesn't include the money you can make from selling your unwanted clobber. Plus, insulation can also add value to your house, and improve your home's energy efficiency score.

Offers are widely available to help with the cost of both loft and cavity wall insulation and for some it's absolutely free. The ACT ON CO<sub>2</sub> advice line can tell you what offers and grants are available in your area. In addition, the ACT ON CO<sub>2</sub> website has information on what you need - whether you want to do it yourself or get specialists in.

Energy and Climate Change Minister, Joan Ruddock, says: "40 per cent of the UK's CO<sub>2</sub> emissions are a result of personal choices. Insulating your home properly brings significant benefits, in reducing your carbon footprint and saving you money."

It's like giving your house a nice woolly jumper.

Most homes don't have enough insulation, even though this can reduce heating bills and CO<sub>2</sub> emissions.

Cavity wall insulation is one of the simplest ways to insulate your home and could save you up to £115 a year in heating costs.

It might cost less than you think to install - offers are available to help with the cost, and for some it's absolutely free.

MP Galloway tops bill at Gaza forum

CONTROVERSIAL MP George Galloway will be the keynote speaker at St John Vianney church hall tonight for a meeting about the situation in Gaza.

The meeting, to mark a year since the crisis in the Palestinian city, will take place at the hall in West Green Road, Turnpike Lane, from 7.30pm. It is free and open to all. The audience will also hear speakers from local Jewish, Muslim and Christian communities.

Haringey Trades Council chairman Keith Flett said: "The meeting last year about Gaza was the biggest public meeting in Haringey in 2009 and we expect another large turnout."

Baby P doctor on misconduct charge

A DOCTOR who is accused of failing to spot the signs of Baby Peter's abuse failed to attend a General Medical Council hearing charged with misconduct.

Dr Sabah Al-Zayyat was a community paediatrician at St Ann's Hospital, in St Ann's Road, Tottenham, when she saw the 17-month-old toddler in August 2007. She missed his injuries after deciding a full check-up could not be carried out and Baby Peter Connolly died two days later. A post-mortem found he had several serious injuries including a broken back and fractured ribs. Dr Al-Zayyat's counsel said on the first day of the hearing on Monday she was suicidal and unfit to appear for the hearing.

Baftas put Adam's graphic designs into the spotlight

By Lucy Purdy

A GRAPHIC designer from Bounds Green was a star behind the scenes at the glittering Bafta film awards at the weekend as his designs were screened around the world.

Adam Tuck, 29, has worked at Bafta for four years and designs materials for the academy's many events including brochures, leaflets, flyers, posters, tickets, certificates and adverts. He rubbed shoulders with the likes of Colin Firth and Meryl Streep at the 2010 film awards on Sunday.

"We do get to get close to the stars sometimes," Adam told the Advertiser. "Last year I was in the press room behind the main stage when Mickey Rourke walked past holding a Bafta in one hand and swigging champagne from the other.

"It is exciting. My job on the night is to edit and upload photographs. Even by the time the ceremony has started we have already uploaded a few photographs taken on the red carpet. There's a really exciting buzz."

Adam has seen his designs on adverts for the film awards on buses and at Tube stations and said he gets a great satisfaction from holding a finished product in his hands.

"One of the highlights of my job at Bafta has been animating a sequence for the famous outdoor screens above Piccadilly Circus in London – the screens are huge, and seeing my work up there was fantastic."

He advised budding graphic designers to research respected design courses, to take inspiration from design all around them and to "practise, practise, practise" in order to succeed.

But the celebrity aspect of Adam's job has become less exciting as time has passed.

"We get to meet a lot of famous people but it's

Screened for success: Adam Tuck used his design skills for the film academy's promotional material in a professional context so you grow out of the habit of getting starstruck," he explained.

"Everyone is only human at the end of the day – even if you do really admire their work! We're just a small office that does something quite cool."

A Facebook campaign called Guiding Lights has been set up to inspire young people into a career such as Adam's.

A DJ who soothes patients at The Whittington Hospital with his uplifting reggae tunes has been nominated for a national radio competition for the second year in a row.

DJ Eddie K, 37, hopes to scoop the top prize when he travels to Glasgow in March to the National Hospital Radio Awards. The father-of-four from Tottenham has been nominated in the best specialist music programme category and has his fingers crossed to take the award after being highly commended last year.

Eddie said: "It's difficult to say how I felt when I heard I was nominated again. I was quite shocked. I think it's great for reggae. If I win, I think I'll be the first reggae DJ in hospital radio to be given an award."

Eddie had worked as a security guard at the hospital, in Highgate Hill, for eight years before deciding to volunteer as a DJ for its radio station.

He said: "Some are shocked I'm playing reggae, which goes to show the genre isn't being represented any more. Some people think it's Eddie makes a point of not playing records which are either homophobic or which condone violence, and counts Maxi Priest and Luciano among his reggae heroes.

He hopes to make sons

Keano, three, Kai, seven, 13-year-old Brandon and Ryan, 19, proud when he travels up to the ceremony on March 27.

When asked about the A&E at The Whittington, Eddie said: "I hope bosses do the right thing by the people of the area."

Leap Year (PG)

Dir: Anand Tucker
Starring: Amy Adams, Matthew Goode, Adam Scott

LET'S pray it's at least another four years before a rom-com-bomb as teeth-grindingly dull as this comes along.

Not since Pearl Harbor have I heard such open dissension at a screening and it says a lot that the funniest moment is when a chicken has its neck broken.

Consisting of a series of ghastly clichés and stereotypes strung together like cheap bunting, it deserves to hang the reputations of writers Deborah Kaplan and Harry Elfont and director Anand Tucker.

Only the two leads muster enough character to prevent this becoming the first No Stars for a year, but they must surely fire their agents for putting themselves up for such unrelenting dross.

Annoying Anna (Adams) is disappointed that her duller-than-dishwater boyfriend (Scott) has not proposed. Stumbling across a quaint Irish tradition on the web that women propose to their suitors on Leap Day (since when was this exclusively an Irish tradition?) she follows him to Dublin to pop the question.

But, of course, all does not go according to plan and she ends up in Cork where she meets the rough, but terribly aesthetically pleasing, Declan (Goode) who promises to take her to Dublin in time for February 29 at the cost of 500 Euros.

Look before you Leap into movie torture

And guess what happens en route...? An unduly travesty of all those classic romantic road movies where the woman starts off despising the man and then becomes utterly devoted to him (It Happened One Night, The 39 Steps et al) this is a borderline racist assault on the Emerald Isle by Hollywood.

The Irish are either drunk, superstitious or simple, live on farms or in picturesque cottages, have wonderfully quaint sayings and stories and are patronised mercilessly by the screenwriters. Worse, far worse, they seem to have entirely lost their sense of humour as a race, with not one decent gag between them.

To echo one character, after 100 minutes of exquisite torture, "You cannot imagine what I've been through". Highly recommended as the perfect break-up movie.

By Jonathan Lovett

Now Showing...

The Lovely Bones (12A)

Peter Jackson's disappointing adaptation of the Alice Sebold bestseller is a saccharine mess that's lost its edge. A murdered 14-year-old tries to help the living bring her killer to justice but the end result is sickly - in more ways than one.

A Single Man (12A)

Revelatory performance from Colin Firth and direction from fashion designer Tom Ford in this beautiful adaptation of the Christopher Isherwood novel. A gay academic decides to kill himself on one crisp, November day in Los Angeles in 1962.

Astro Boy (PG)

Manga is brought to cinematic life, rather like the turbo-charged titular hero who is rebuilt from the DNA of genius child Toby. Hampered by clunking moralising, it's still enjoyable kiddie fare.

Precious: Based on the Novel 'Push' by Sapphire (15)

Extraordinary slice of life picked snarling and scrapping from the streets of Harlem. Obese Claireece "Precious" Jones endures all manner of humiliations and abuse before an alternative school offers her a shard of hope.

Play in search of identity

IDENTITY is important to theatres and companies. A strong identity ensures they stand out among the multitude of similar enterprises and helps build a reputation for a particular strand of work.

In the past year Jacksons Lane in Highgate has become a forthright cheerleader for circus and cabaret and is encouraging new work from equally ambitious companies such as new group Collectif and then...

The quartet of twenty-somethings have found a ready partner in Jacksons Lane which helps them build their own identity.

Francesca Hyde, one of the founders, said, "In the UK there are lots of circus companies that focus on one discipline such as aerial work or acrobatics but we try to mix different disciplines to present something unique."

Sending out questionnaires and interviewing people in the street, the foursome have used the answers to create a piece about aspects of London encompassing the theme of identity.

"We play one main character each and mine is lost," said Francesca, enigmatically. "We hope to make audiences think about what's around us and about society in general, but we also hope they enjoy it and have fun."

● Collectif and then... performs Like The Rain When It Stops at Jacksons Lane in Archway Road from tonight until Saturday. Tonight and tomorrow tickets are two for one. For details call the box office on 020 8341 4421.

The Ace Café London Motorcycle and Custom Show features trade stands, stunt shows, live action and lots of bikes. It runs from 10am to 4pm on Friday and 10am to 5pm Saturday and Sunday. Tickets range from £5 to £15. For more details call 08452 305 177.

● DOMINIC Frisby is the comedian flying high Downstairs at the King's Head this Saturday. The stand-up and compere aims to keep a firm grip on proceedings at the Comedy Cabaret which this week stars Stephen Carlin, Junior Simpson, Dan Evans, Paul Kerensa and Terry Saunders. £10 (£7 concs) and the show below the King's Head in Crouch End Hill, Crouch End starts at 8pm. Call 020 8340 1028.

● A LOT of night music promised at the Millfield Arts Centre over the next few days. Tomorrow King Pleasure & The Biscuit Boys perform rocking rhythm and blues at the Edmonton venue followed on Friday with Voice of the Heart, a tribute to Karen Carpenter. Then kick back for a little mood music courtesy of the Sounds of the Glenn Miller Era on Saturday. Call the box office on 020 8807 6680.

Omega Lettings wins Haringey Contract offering 3 Year Guaranteed Rents

Omega Lettings are proud to announce our new 3 year guaranteed rental scheme set up in partnership with the London Borough of Haringey. Following a successful tender process, Omega Lettings now require in excess of 200 properties within Haringey and 1.5 miles in the boroughs of Enfield, Barnet, Islington, Hackney and Waltham Forest within the next 3 months.

Given this uncertain environment, Omega Lettings appreciate that landlords are looking for as much security as possible when it comes to letting out their properties. This security can be found through innovative schemes allowing councils – in partnership with leasing providers such as Omega Lettings – to provide quality accommodation to people who have lost their homes. It should also provide landlords with long-term tenants and peace of mind as the scheme guarantees a rental income for three years.

Private Sector Leasing schemes are now attracting a number of private sector landlords due to the guaranteed rental income, with no voids, for three years and no agency fees. The schemes that are run by Omega Lettings, a private-sector manager of leased social housing throughout North London, provide all these with prompt rental payments via BACS. Omega Lettings does not charge commission or management fees with regards to the leasing schemes and offers a free and immediate valuation service for all properties.

For further information on Private Sector Leasing guaranteed rent schemes throughout North London, Omega Lettings can be contacted on 020 8988 2838 or @ www.omegallettings.com.

Public Notices

LICENSING ACT 2003 Notice Of Application For Premises Licence

Notice is hereby given that Demetris Charalambous has applied to the Licensing Authority of London Borough of Haringey for a Premises Licence to permit the sale by retail of alcohol: Sunday to Thursday 11.00am till 00.00 and Friday and Saturday 11.00am – 2.00am and the provision of late night refreshments: Sunday to Thursday 23.00 till 00.00 and Friday and Saturday 23.00 – 2.00am for the premises Navsika Restaurant, situated at 499 Green Lanes, Haringey, London N4 1LA. A register of licensing applications can be inspected at Licensing Team, Enforcement Service, Technopark, Ashley Road, Tottenham N17 9UN. Any person wishing to submit relevant representations concerning this application must give notice in writing to the London Borough of Haringey, Licensing team at the above address, giving in detail the grounds of the representation no later than 19/03/2010. Copies of all representations will be included in the papers presented to the Licensing Authorities sub committee and will therefore pass in to the public domain. Representations must relate to one or more of the four licensing objectives; the prevention of crime and disorder, public safety, the prevention of public nuisance and the protection of children from harm. It is an offence liable on conviction to a fine up to £5000 under section 158 of the Licensing Act 2003 knowingly or recklessly make a false statement in connection with an application. Dated this 17th day of February 2010.

See what our customers say about us...

Hi Sarah,

Since your papers have such a great penetration into the market, we have had an immense response to the adverts placed.

It would be enough for us to just keep it in for one week - please do not continue the advert over to a second week!

We will surely be using your medium for future advertisements for promoting our moving services as well as other recruitment adverts.

Best regards,

FROM RUSSIA WITH LOVE

At the double: Pavlyuchenko scored twice after being introduced from the bench in the second half

Pav double from the bench gives boss Redknapp food for thought

By Lee Husson

ROMAN PAVLYUCHENKO has given Harry Redknapp "plenty to think about" after stepping off the bench to fire a double-strike at Wigan on Sunday, according to Tottenham assistant manager Kevin Bond.

The wantaway striker scored his first league goals of the season in the last five minutes to give Spurs a comprehensive 3-0 win and send them back up into fourth.

The Russian spoke of his disappointment at not being allowed to head back home in the transfer window last month after falling down the pecking order since Redknapp's arrival last season.

Pavlyuchenko has made only 32 appearances for the club since moving from Spartak Moscow in 2008, scoring just five league goals.

But Bond believes the player could well have fought his way back into Redknapp's plans after his two-goal salvo at the weekend.

"Roman has trained really well all week and the manager had it in the back of his mind to introduce him at some stage," Bond said.

"He has made a real impact and given the manager plenty to think about now."

Jermain Defoe, who opened the scoring for Spurs in the first half, also backed Pavlyuchenko to play a big part in the run-in as the season heads into the home stretch.

"He's a world-class striker so if we can keep him it's good for the club," he said.

"It's difficult for Pav. It's important to stay professional but at times it's difficult when you're not playing. I understand because I went through a time at Spurs when I wasn't in the team and it's difficult.

"He's a fantastic lad and is still a fantastic player. It showed against Leeds when he came on – it was a fantastic finish and that's what he's about."

Tottenham face a crunch clash in the race for fourth this weekend as they host an Everton side in red-hot form on Sunday lunchtime, after tonight's FA Cup fifth round replay with Bolton (8pm).

In-form Borough pull clear of danger

Hertford Town 1 Haringey Borough 3

Molten Spartan Premier Division

HARINGEY BOROUGH continued their excellent recent run of form by easing to a 3-1 victory at Hertford Town in the Spartan Premier Division on Saturday.

Seemingly embroiled in a relegation battle at the turn of the year, this triumph was Borough's third win in four matches and lifted them nine points clear of the drop zone.

The visitors opened the scoring on 28 minutes when Adam Scotcher got on to the end of Billy Haspineall's long ball and blasted into the net from ten yards out.

Lloyd Opara was unlucky not to double the lead when his goalbound flick was scrambled clear, but Hertford's reprieve was only temporary as Bosun Adebaki headed home from the resulting corner.

And Borough's win was effectively secured by the interval as they added a third in first-half stoppage time – Opara giving keeper Lee Robinson no chance with an accurate cross-shot.

Lee Allen and Opara both squandered good opportunities to further extend the advantage in the second period, before Kevin Cooper replied for Hertford by hooking home from a tight angle.

But Borough's defence held firm under sustained pressure in the closing stages as they secured their first double of the season.

Haringey Borough host Hanwell Town on Saturday (3pm).

Struggling Skolars get Ade boost

FORMER London Broncos player Ade Adebisi has become the latest recruit to join the London Skolars ahead of the upcoming Championship One season.

Adebisi, who was also on the books at Super League side Hull FC, signs for the club from Whitehaven, having joined the Championship outfit from National League Two champions Featherstone Rovers in 2008.

Adebisi joined the London Broncos development programme in 2002 before signing for their junior academy team the following season.

In 2004, as well as representing the BARLA Young Lions against France, he also made his debut for the Broncos in Super League, before a spell on loan at Hull FC where he played in their successful academy side with fellow Skolars Michael Worrincy and Louie McCarthy-Scarsbrook.

His first year at Whitehaven saw him finish the season as the club's top try scorer with 22 tries in 30 games.

Head coach James Massara said: "Ade brings some top level experience to the squad. I remember watching him play for the Broncos and Hull when he was young, and I was always impressed with the spark he brought to the game.

"He has fitted right in to the group of players we have down here and he is looking forward to getting back to playing again."
